The Society of Behavioral Medicine’s Cancer Special Interest Group Presents:

Cancer Behavioral Medicine Workshop

Translating Clinical Guidelines and Evidence-Based Medicine Using Dissemination and Implementation Science

Do you:
• Care for cancer patients?
• Conduct clinical research?
• Participate in cancer center leadership?

If so, plan to attend!!

To maintain accreditation by the American College of Surgeons Committee on Cancer, cancer centers will begin to implement new Continuum of Care Standards 3.1-3.3 that include:

• patient navigation, psychosocial distress screening, and delivery of treatment and survivorship care plans; and
• documentation of effective treatment of depression and anxiety symptoms, including implementation of systematic screening, mental health referral, and evidence-based care.

2015 Society of Behavioral Medicine Pre-Conference Workshop:

Translating Clinical Guidelines and Evidence-Based Medicine Using Dissemination and Implementation Science

Workshop attendees will learn about and discuss:

• national and international efforts to assess cancer survivorship outcomes and PROMIS cancer-specific norms;
• successful cancer survivorship clinic models and how to implement multiple survivorship guidelines (NCCN, Essential Elements of Care, ASCO QOPD); and
• best practices for implementation and dissemination of evidence-based programs, including the use of mobile technology.
